NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The stock market just stopped short of absolute stagnation. The dealings were on an unusually small scale, even for a half holiday session, and they were wholly of a professional character. There was some steadiness to prices at the start, but in a short time a sagging tendency was developed, although the recessions generally were confined to fractions.

St. Paul opened up ½ per cent, but zoon lost more than the gain. Atchison declined a point. Reading enjoyed a moderate rally. New York Central opened of 1½ per cent, but sagging the start but in a short time a sagging tendency was developed, although the recessions generally were confined to fractions.

A study of the crop report explains a degree its failure to stimulate the market. Apart from the staken a respite from all points comes the story of an embargo laid on net earnings by increased operating expenses. This condition is the result of high-priced labor and the increased cost of material.

Dame rumor has taken a respite from its arduous labors in conjuring guesses on the decline of steel common. Most of the sensational reports are now discountenanced, and the public is informed today that the quarterly dividend will be declared at the usual rate and time.
